SHOCKING THE ANIMALS. A Party of Electricians Turned Loose Among Barnum's Menagerie.

"Tody" Hamilton, Barnum's newspaper agent, was in town to-day with a number of electricians from New York. says a Bridgeport, Conn., special to the New York World. Mr. Hamilton explained that in view of the fact that criminais were hereafter to be executed by electricity in New York, the "power of resistance" had become an interest-ing study. He had therefore decided to experiment upon the wild animals of the greatest show on earth at the winter quarters in this city. Mr. Hamilton was willing to sacrifice a few elephants and tigers in the cause of science. He was anxious to see the power of resistance tested first on a large-sized monkey. The experiments were under the direction of Dr. A. W. Jackson, assisted by Dr. F. G. Welch, Chr. E. A. Gronbech, William Failes and Mr. Wisner, all of New York city. 142-cell battery was used upon one of the large bluenosed monkeys. The current was applied at the back of the neck and through the arm and hand. The monkey screamed at first, but in a few econds began to dance and act like a person intoxicated. Mr. Hamilton was lelighted. The power of resistance, or the unit of an ohm, is equivalent to the force necessary to pass a current through one yard of mercury. The monkey withstood 8,000 yards of mercurial resistance.

The battery was next applied to a seal, but the shock was almost nothing on account of the moisture. A hyena and tame leopard took 8,000 ohms without any perceptible irritation, but the huge elephant Phallas withstood 11,000 ohms before exhibiting any signs of uneasiness. The wires were attached to sponges. One sponge was placed in the elephant's trunk and the other upon its shoulder over the heart. When Dr. Jackson turned on 11,000 ohms Palles rolled up her trunk and thrust the sponge into her mouth. After giving a few hasty crunches her huge molars on the sponge and the ohms she dropped it and uttered a roar. Next the baby elephant Tom Thumb was experimented with. Tom Thumb, by the way, should be called Miss Thumb, as a mistake was made by Mr. Barnum when she was christened, result was to cause Tom Thumb to waive her off hind leg furiously in the air. Mr. Hamilton explained that this was the leg that had been broken and the reset bones must necessarily be sensitive. Tom Thumb's power of resistance is 10,010 ohms. A few snakes, a dog, a sacred cow and the ibex were shocked, but no animals were killed.

The electricians returned to New York on a late train. The most severe cold will soon yield to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It does not suppress a cold but loosens and relieves it. No one afflicted with a throat or lung trouble can use it without benefit. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by all draggists.

Young Latimer Petted By Women. Young Irving Latimer, accused of murdering his mother, has become the pet of a lot of foolish women in Jackson, who send him bouquets and wreaths of flowers, delicacies and valuable pres-ents. His cell looks like a bower of roses. Many of his admirers try to see him in jail. Latimer bears these honers with the same stolidity that has marked his behavior since the murder. At his examination the court room is crowded, and half the audience is com-posed of handsomely dressed and re-spectable women. When Latimer enters he greets his friends in a nonchallant way and is effusively welcomed, though in a subdued manner, by his society friends. He listens carefully to the damaging testimony against him and takes copious notes.
